NO SMALL DREAMS
FOR KIDS

The story starts with one person, Brett, seeing a big problem. A lot of people all the way across the world didn’t have homes.

A BIG PROBLEM

Think about that for a second. Families like ours don’t have a home to keep them safe from storms or bugs. How do you feel when you hear that people don’t have a home?
A BIGGER DREAM

Brett had an idea that gave him hope. He wanted to help build a world where everyone had a safe home. That was his big dream.

Take turns sharing your dreams.
Do you have a dream for yourself?
What about a dream for your family? Now let’s dream SUPER big. Are you ready...what’s your dream for the whole world?
FRIENDS HELP EACH OTHER

Brett’s dream was so big, he realized no one person could do it on his own. But he made two friends, Allie and Matthew, who had the same dream and wanted to help each other make it come true.

When you dream big, you need help to make it real. Friends use what they’re good at to help each other. What are you really good at? How can you use that to help your friends?
THINKING OF IDEAS

A world where everyone has a home is hard. Really hard. There are just SO many people around the world that need a home. Enough people to fill up thousands of schools!

Ask this to each person in your family: What’s your idea for building more homes faster for families that need one? Would you use huge Legos? Robots? There are no wrong answers!
HOMES HELP PEOPLE

Today, many more friends have joined Brett, Allie, and Matthew to build homes for families that need them. They’re a strong team. The team has seen a lot of families move into new homes.

When families move into a safe home, they have clean water for baths, strong roofs to keep them dry, and comfy rooms to sleep in. Try this: finish each sentence about your home.

My home makes me feel happy because...

I feel safe in my home because...

My favorite part of my home is...
